Doggy Dawdle

Join hundreds of dog lovers and help raise money for the University of Glasgow's Small Animal Hospital campaign by taking part in our fun Doggy Dawdle on Saturday 8th May 2010.

Choose between a 5K or 10K walk within the beautiful grounds of the University of Glasgow's Garscube Estate, in the west end of Glasgow, off Switchback Road.

After more than 10 years in the planning the University of Glasgow's new Small Animal Hospital is now open thanks to the generosity of our supporters. The patients we treat have always received a high standard of care, but with our new hospital the care and treatment delivered by our dedicated staff will now be provided in the best surroundings possible. In order to meet our campaign target our efforts are ongoing. All funds raised from the Doggy Dawdle will be helping to support the completion and ongoing work of the Small Animal Hospital.

Please help us to support a new generation of vets and the animals in their care by taking part in the Doggy Dawdle.

A New Hospital for the 21st Century

The Small Animal hospital at the University of Glasgow has always played an important role in treating sick and injured animals from all over the UK as well as providing the best training for current and future vets and nurses. The old hospital was outdated, cramped and at the end of its useful life and so our campaign to build a new hospital began. The aim was to provide a world class centre for veterinary medicine, challenging current concepts of clinical practice, teaching and research and pioneering future standards in animal treatment and welfare. After more than 10 years in the planning the stunning new building has finally emerged and is in full operation.

What support to the campaign will mean...

To our patients:

We currently help 11,000 animals every year but we want to provide the best possible care to even more pets. The pioneering facilities and services will mean better and more advanced treatments in the highest quality surroundings.

To our students:

The hospital plays a vital role as a training hospital for approximately 120 veterinary students and 30 veterinary nurses every year. The new hospital will allow the vets of tomorrow to learn in state of the art surroundings with access to some of the best specialist vets in their field.

We hope that you feel inspired to support our campaign by joining in the 2010 Doggy Dawdle. On behalf of the animals that depend on our work, thank you.
